WE NEED TO TALK

ABOUT DISCRIMINATION. HERE.
WITH US. AT OUR UNIVERSITY.

Together with you and other students from the FORTHEM partner universities, we would like to provide a space to identify and name discrimination experienced at our universities, and to tackle it together. The event will take place in the form of a two-part virtual workshop.

Our aim is to advocate for a non-discriminating university community.

While the first session will focus on concepts and exercises related to identity and stereotyping, the second session will focus on sharing your own experiences. Participation in both workshop sessions is required.

The workshop will be partly in English - the discussions in smaller groups in the respective national languages. For a trusting atmosphere and a personal approach, it is important that all participants join in with a camera.

The workshop will take place within the framework of the FORTHEM Alliance, to which the topics of diversity & inclusion are of high importance.
